INTERVENING IN CASES OF JUVENILES WITH COMPLEX CASE HISTORIES

Preface

In 2019, the Netherlands had 181,000 young people, aged 15 to 27, without a basic qualification. Of this group, 70,000 had no prospect of work, and 18,000 minors had come into contact with the law. In the same year, 428,000 young people (up to the age of 23), received youth care (CBS, 2019). These startling figures, with ensuing social costs exceeding billions of Euros annually, show how urgent the situation is. How can you help turn the tide as a professional in the security and youth domain?

Content

The training consists of two half-days in which you, as a professional, are provided with the tools to effectively and efficiently help your community. You will learn how to impart tailor-made support to the youth within your municipality or institution, and encourage the pursuit of basic qualifications and/or participation in the labor force. During training, we analyse the complexity of the problems and look for alternative solutions. To serve as a guideline, we take into account the younger generations perspective, use the most recent scientific insights, and incorporate practical experience. We do this on the basis of the following topics:

- The importance of thorough problem analysis
- Psychological indicators
- Risk factors
- Evidence based methodologies
- Multidisciplinary and integrated approach
- Success factors

Target audience

This training is intended for anyone who regularly works with young people dealing with complex case histories. Whether you are a manager or professional, working in an organization or municipality, within security or the youth domain, this training is essential. Other examples include employees who work for:

- Youth Protection and Youth Care organizations
- Municipalities
- Attendance officers and unemployment agencies
- Police
- Policy makers

This course offers space for a minimum of six, and a maximum of ten participants, and is provided several times a year.

Doing what is necessary and exploring new possibilities will lead to results
